With the Maxon guarantee of quality, performance and reliability.

Building on the success of the established Maxon range of professional two way radio's, Maxon CIC Europe Ltd are proud to introduce their new SL1000 series of programmable PMR hand held radio's.

The SL1000 series follows on from the successful release of the licence free version, the PMR446 S5, and is the professional solution to your communication needs.

The SL1000 series is easy to operate, and has been designed to withstand the rigours of everyday use. The design incorporates both dust and water spray protection, which helps to make the SL1000 series both robust and reliable.

It is the perfect, low cost voice communication tool for many industries including police, fire, ambulance, railways, security & construction firms and retail outlets. It is also an excellent choice for radio hire applications.

The high capacity 1500mAh Li-Ion battery pack provides many hours of continuous operation without the need to recharge, which will benefit employees who work long shifts. Li-Ion batteries provide lightweight performance without the 'memory effect' exhibited by traditional Ni-Cd & Ni-Mh chemistries.

The radio is supplied with a rapid charger as standard and there is a wide range of accessories available to meet your specific needs.
